Pet Of The Month

Bubbles

Bubbles' early life was dedicated to her Anthropology work in Manatee County, Florida, where she studied human, rabbit, and squirrel behavior while living in the wild before carefully selecting her adoptive parents. She has excellent human observation skills, demonstrated in this photo on the grounds of Reve. While in Boulder, she spends her free time hiking the Flat Irons (in a swaddle worn by her dad), chasing the local rabbit population, and sun-tanning. Bubbles has not let her sight impairment slow her down down; she relies on her "Rumba Simulation" technique of gently bumping into things to learn her surroundings. When you meet Bubbles, slowly approach so she can use her keen sense of smell to detect your presence.
